Sentenced To Five Years On the Reef.

HE BURNED WAIANAE CANE

Tried to Work a Smooth Scheme but His Partner Weakened and Confessed.

The trial of Kii, a native laborer of Walanae, on the charge of setting fire to sugar cane at Waianae plantation last March, occupied but a short time in the Circuit Court before Judge Humphreys, yesterday, and a still shorter time was consumed by the jury which heard the case in finding the man guilty. So aggravated was the offense, as shown by the testimony, that Judge Humphreys sentenced the guilty man to serve five years in the Oahu penitentiary, the full limit of the

A curious state of affairs was disclosed by the evidence in the case. It appeared that Kil and one Kaela were watchmen at the plantation. On several occasions last winter the plantation had lost cane by burning, and it seemed that a number of firebugs must be operating in that vicinity. So a retion manager for the capture of the arsonists. Kii and Keala were sharp, and they conceived the scheme of setting fire to the cane and then capturing some Chinese and accusing them of the crime. Thus the pair hoped to secure the $250 reward.

Then the precious pair secured the assistance of a young native boy named Nalopi. The lad was only sixteen years of age, and some time before he had been found guilty of a petty theft and sent to the reform school. Kii and Keala resolved to have the boy do the firing of the cane, and then if worst came to worst they could say that the boy was the actual criminal. The scheme worked all right, but Keala became faint-hearted when he and his companions were arrested and disclosed the whole scheme, thus getting off scot free. The boy Nalopi pleaded guilty and was sent to prison for two years, and that left only Kii to stand trial for the crime. The evidence against Kii was most conclusive. Two Chinese witnesses, Thee Ping and Look were summoned, and they told of having passed the place where the cane was set on fire and hearing shots. Immediately thereafter the cane blazed up. They were arrested, but were discharged as soon as Keala made his confession, boy Nalopi told of hearing the two men, Kii and Keala, plan the crime, and said that they had forced him at the point of a gun to set the cane on He believed that the two would kill him if he did not do it, for they had a big rifle, and they threatened him repeatedly with it, and said that they would surely slay him if he did not obey their orders.

Having brought out this statement of facts Deputy Attorney General Cathcart rested his case. Strauss, who was defending Kii, said the defense had no testimony to offer, and the case was submitted without argument. In his charge to the jury Judge Humphreys directed the jury that if it was found that Kii had incited the commission of the crime he was just as guilty as if he had himself set fire to the cane.

The jury was out only long enough to take a ballot on the case, and then brought in a verdict as charged. Judge Humphreys sentenced Kil to serve five years in Oahu penitentiary, at hard labor, the full limit of the law. BIG BOND FILED.

The $110,000 bond in the "William Carson" case was filed in the Circuit court W. O. Smith Secretary and Auditor yesterday. By its terms the Wilder Steamship Company, as principal and W. C. EGAN AND HUSTACE ANSWER. John J.
